

Privacy Policy Statement

We may ask you to provide us with or enter on-line certain details relating to you and/or your business (such as your personal or business name, your job title, department, e-mail address, your mobile or work telephone number, fax number or postal address) before we agree to supply you with or allow you to access or use certain parts of our website, the CRD Analytics Services or in the case of our data collection forms and software tools (where permitted) to download.

When placing an order for any of the CRD Analytics reports and/or services you may additionally be asked for details relating to payment, such as credit, visa or debit card numbers and other details for verification purposes. Although parts of our website and details of our products, services and facilities available from time to time may be accessible without the need for you to supply us with such details or other information and verification by us, those parts which are subject to such conditions will not (as the case may be) be accessible, useable, printable or (where permitted) downloadable until such details and information are provided and verified. We may additionally obtain, following access by you to our website or to any of the CRD Analytics Services, certain information concerning your computer, network and/or server to enable us to maintain a connection with you and to provide you with continued access to and use of the CRD Analytics Services, to enable you to enter information on-line or to conduct a dialogue with us over the Internet when participating in or making use of any of our on-line products, facilities or services or otherwise to enable us to perform any contractual or other lawful obligation we may have to you.

We may use 'cookies' for these purposes and to track or customize your visit and generally to enable us to collect user information. We will only read cookies from your cookie file accessible to us through your web browsers' interaction with our website. We will not without your permission use such information for any purpose not connected with your access to and/or use of the CRD Analytics Services, the downloading (where permitted) by you of any of our software available from time to time, the promotion or provision of any of the CRD Analytics Services or the performance of our contractual or other obligations to you. This may mean that we (where necessary) will disclose some or all of this information to our group companies and suppliers from time to time.

Information, promotions and updates relating to CRD Analytics online shopping carts, the CRD Analytics data collection forms, surveys and other CRD Analytics products and services may be sent by us to you from time to time using the details and information which you provide to us. You agree that we may use such details and information for this purpose and in connection with any of the CRD Analytics Services to which you subscribe, pay for or register with us to receive. We may pass on your details and/or information within our 'Group' (which phrase shall mean CRD Analytics and its associated companies being any of its 'holding' or 'subsidiary' companies as defined in the Companies Act 1985). We will not (subject to the terms of this Privacy Policy) pass on your details and/or information to any other person, firm or company not connected with us or not necessary to perform our obligations to you other than our professional advisors from time to time and as we may be required by any relevant law, rule or regulation. In the event that you subscribe, pay for or register with us for access to, the use or supply of any of the CRD Analytics products and services, this Privacy Policy may be varied to the extent of our agreement with you for their provision.

You should note that any information which you post in any chat room, bulletin board or other public forum on, connected to or accessible via our website will be generally available to and accessible by any person, firm or company visiting them.

We observe the obligations set out in the Data Protection Act 1998 ('the Act') relating to personal data of data subjects and are registered with the Information Commissioner. Access to personal data held by us from time to time is available to data subjects at any time upon request. We may require you to provide us with certain information relating to your suppliers and third party contractors in connection with the provision to you of the CRD Analytics SmartView 360 platform to calculate, score and rank your Sustainable Performance scores and key performance indicators used for financial indexes, rankings and research ratings. In such circumstances we rely on you to obtain all relevant permissions and consents to enable us to lawfully use such data.

We will not without your prior consent use any of your personal data provided to us or entered onto our website by you save in accordance with the purposes for which the data is submitted, the terms of this Privacy Policy, the terms of any agreement made from time to time with you or to perform any contractual or other obligations which we may have to you. We may need to pass some of your personal data to other individuals within your organization or to the suppliers you notify us of strictly in connection with Membership, the provision to you of the CRD Analytics products and services or the calculation of your CRD Analytics SmartView 360 scores, rankings and ratings.

Your personal data held by us will not be transmitted at any time to any person, firm or company not being based in an EEA country or in a country or territory otherwise approved by the relevant regulatory authorities or one being a signatory to (in the case of the United States of America) The Safe Harbor Principles or (in the case of any country or territory) any other relevant obligatory or voluntary code relevant and existing from time to time and recognized by the relevant regulatory authorities, unless we are satisfied as to the precautions taken by the intended recipient for the protection of such information.

Notwithstanding the above, you agree that we may at any time pass or transfer any of your personal data to persons outside of the EEA who are connected with us (including without limitation within our Group) and transfer at any time any of your personal data as may be necessary to persons outside of the EEA not connected with us in connection with the proper performance of our obligations to you and to enable us to file and store such data without the need for us to take such precautionary steps. We will not disclose or transfer to any person, firm or company any of your personal data which is considered "sensitive" (within the meaning set out in the Act) without obtaining your prior permission. Any query relating to data protection issues or personal data held by us relating to you should be directed to our data controller at mmuyot@CRD Analytics.com.